TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10.

Building operations in the United States are booming about as merrily as ever. If the cement industry may be accepted as a criterion, the housing problem will soon adjust itself. The production of cement since April of the present year has been a million barrels a month in excess of the best previous month in record. For the past five months the cement factories of the country have been producing at the rate of 135,000,000 barrels a year. Brick production is also on the increase. Nearly all the manufacturers of bricks, supplying the larger centers, are running to capacity. The lumber business is good, and in all lines pertaining to the manufacture of building material there is a general activity, denoting that the country is feverishly active in building operations from coast to coast and best of all, there is no immediate prospect of any falling off of these activities.

SNODGRASS AND THE WEEVIL.

"Well Mr. Editor, this kinder cool today," said Sam Snodgrass as he walked, spitting tobacco juice on our red hot stove.

"Sees what a lot of niggers and white folks are a leavin' de farms of some sections of de country and gwine nowhere," said dey earl mornin' no money rain' cotton wid de boll weevil. Bless your hide dese niggers and white folks ain't rumblin' frum de boll weevil, dey is rumblin' frum de work what de boll weevil makes em do. No sir, you can't raise no cotton wid de boll weevil leasen you work and work hard, and have a stack of niggers and white folks what ain't got no use for hard work. Nuthin' thing folks whif think dey can raise cotton and buy corn and other feed stuffs wid de cotton money is shurely givin' down hard. If folks will raise their own feed first and den plant cotton, profitin' dey is willing to work we will git along alright. Lots of folks what worked dis year 'made money' and got plenty to eat at home, and you know, some folks ain't nefer 'made nothin' no year. Just 'cause dey ain't worked no money. No sir, ain't nobody rumblin' frum de boll weevil, dey just rumblin' frum de work what de boll weevil make you do.

Well, lasse where dey done started a movement to git a state bond issue of some fifty million dollars to build good roads all through de state, I hardly knows what to say about dis. It's mighty heap up money to spend but, looks like we is bound to have roads and ain't nobody gwine to give em to us so reckon we just as well dig down in our pocket and pay for em. Reckon 'if we gits so far in debt we can't git out we'll have good roads to ride away frum den. On maybe if we gits a lot of good roads folks from other sections o' our country will be a coming here to live and dat is what we needs.

Well, in lookin' 'bout I see a good many farmers what is done a lot of fall plowing and den I see some what ain't done none. Just like 'I already said, some folks ain't going to work no matter what comes along so that galls 'em."

And say Snodgrass went out he picked up a chunk of coal and threw it at the office cat.

Meeting Young Women's Club.

The Young Women's Club of Chester held its regular monthly meeting at the armory at eight o'clock on the evening of December 14th.

On account of the absence of the president, the meeting was called to order by Miss Cora Haffin, vice president. The roll was called and dues collected, amount $11.50. Twenty-seven members were present.

Miss Hardin then read a letter from Mrs. Henzies, President of the Civic Club, thanking the club members for helping to entertain the teachers this fall.

It was suggested to the members that they subscribe to a health bond, the price of which was $5.00. This suggestion was adopted by all.

A raffle game of things was then given by the members to the social service committee for baptizing the clubroom.

The Caprice Game was then explained. Each member was given a capsule containing the name of another member. The one receiving the capsule was asked to do little courtesies for the person whose name she received, without the other finding it out until the next meeting, when all names would be disclosed. The object of this game was to enable the members to become better acquainted with each other. This game was adopted by the members.

The different committees were now called upon to give reports.

Miss Madge Laboon, chairman of the recreation committee, suggested some games in which all the members joined merrily.

Last, but not least, came the duties of the refreshment committee, who prepared hot fruit, candy and nut brought by the members. This repast was enjoyed very much, by every one.

Some one in West Virginia shipped a bull dog to John White but several days ago, Mr. Bickett, agent for the express company, has sent notices through the post-office trying to locate John White but every John White who called stated that the dog did not belong to him. Mr. Bickett took the dog home to keep until he could possibly find the owner and last night it pulled the collar off so there is now a stray bull dog in the community.

GOVERNORS IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, Dec. 17.—Governors from most of the states reached Washington this evening to be in readiness for the conference with President Harding tomorrow on dry.

All of them were figuratively wet, victims of a typical rainy, foggy day, but in no way dimmed or halting in their purpose of making a layman just what it says.

The question of whether the 18th Amendment is right or wrong is not to be debated, it was learned at the White House today. As the President has stated in his recent speeches and private talks, it is a question of respect for law.

The White House idea, it was stated, is not a question of whether the particular law it must be enforced and the governors are to be asked in what way the enforcement may be made efficient. Disrespect for law cannot, and will not be tolerated, the President stated, and if the machinery for enforcement is not adequate it must be made so.

Football Banquet Last Night.

The members of the Chester High school football team enjoyed a banquet given them in Hamilton's Hall last evening. Practically all of the members of the team were present and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed.

Col. A. B. Gaston acted as toastmaster and introduced a number of speakers who told the boys of Chester's appreciation of their work during their studies and other good advice. Among those who spoke to the boys were Prof. Rankin, Prof.
Brookman and Mr. T. H. White.

Captain Jim Brice of the team made several remarks and gave the boys encouragement for next year.
Captain Brice has been a member of the team for the past three years and this year finished his high school course. Being the case it was necessary to elect a Captain for next year and after balloting it was found that Herbert Colburn had been selected as Captain of the team for next year.

In behalf of the fans of the city
Col. Gaston presented Dr. W. K. Mcgill, coach, with a nice purse. Dr.
Mcgill then made a talk, thanking the fans for their kindness in remembering him and also gave the boys a most excellent talk along football lines and also their duties in school.

The City Council has ordered assessments to be issued against any delinquent on January 1st, 1923 and the abutting property advertised for sale to cover the installment, interest and costs.

Individual notices have been mailed to abutting property owners of record on the City Assessment book, showing the amount of their installment and interest; but these notices are an accommodation only, and failure to receive same will not excuse failure to pay before January 1st, 1923.

Special attention to this notice should be given by owners who have bought property on improved street during the past year, as no record of transfers is kept in this office and the parties may have been mailed to former owner.

Create A Demand

If every person in Chester county would confine their expenditures to the absolute necessities of life, many mercantile establishments, would have to close their doors.

The amount of business done in a community depends upon the demand of the people. Thousands of dollars are being spent throughout the country giving publicity to various articles, with the view of creating a demand.

Merchants should advertise their business thereby creating a demand for the various articles they sell.

Eskimo pies are a luxury, yet the manufacturers made millions by advertising and creating a demand.

The less advertising merchants do the less demand they have for their goods.

DAIRY COWS, PIGS AND POULTRY

Selling Cream and Feeding Skin Milk Pays.

"Dairying upon the new basis of marketing cream is undoubtedly the most profitable way of marketing forage and grain, therefore, cream dairying or the keeping of a few cows on every farm, the selling of cream to the creamery, and the feeding of skim milk to pigs and poultry is a most practicable and easily adopted plan, fitting in admirably with the plans for producing cotton successfully under worst conditions."

"The need for a constant cash income from week to week, or month to month, throughout the year on all farms is very urgent and has been all these years. Marketing cream will meet this urgent need for a cash income, enabling the farmer to proceed, in so far as current expenses are concerned, upon a cash basis and it is being recognized now, as never before that any practicable means whereby the farmer may relieve himself of the necessity of going into debt for supplies upon which to go while making a crop of importance."

"The feeding of skim milk to poultry of the right kind should enable the farmer to supplement his income from the sale of cream with cash received for poultry and eggs. Skim milk is a most excellent feed for brood sows and pigs, and a farmer keeping a few cows with a constant supply of skim milk on hand will find it much easier to produce, at least meat enough for his home needs. In fact, the cream dairying, poultry and hog program in connection with cotton is most practicable and will mean prosperity for those farmers who adopt this farming policy."

"The keeping of cows will result in an incidental and constant improvement in our soils which will prove cumulative value and show up in increased production, and great margins of profits upon our main cash crop each year."—South-gin Railway Market Bulletin.
